BUILD Magazine Announces The 2017 Interior Design Awards Winners.

United Kingdom, January 2017- BUILD Magazine has announced winners of the 2017 Interior Design Awards.

It is a common fact that the average person can paint a wall by using some initiative, but it takes so much more to take on the role of an Interior Designer. Dedication, hard work and passion are all key factors into what make a business a success.

The industry is taking the world by storm and Interior Designers have found themselves inundated with new demands and workload as clients see the benefits of hiring a professional to create a home which is more than just bricks and mortar; but rather a space in which they can be themselves and express their creativity.

As such the 2017 Interior Design Awards have been introduced to honour those firms and individuals who have taken every challenge head on, putting their heart and soul into their work and creating a solid client base.

Amy Gower, Awards Co-ordinator, commented on the awards: "Interior designers shape the spaces we live in, and as such play a vital role in society. It has been a real pleasure working with all of our deserving winners and I would like to wish them the best of fortunes going forward."
